

Lorimer House

nursing home

Juniper Green, developed as a village from around 1810. Traditionally, its major industries were paper and snuff the village is set on a ridge in the river valley of the Water of Leith to its south. The village was absorbed into the City of Edinburgh in 1920, although a recognisable village character still remains with the conservation area status designated in November 1993 to protect that character.

Lorimer House was built in 1905 by renowned Scottish architect Sir Robert Lorimer. Lorimer House was initially built as a red tiled family house standing in the 2 acres of beautiful gardens and mature woodland, looking onto the Pentland Hills.

Many of the original features of the Grade C listed building have been carefully retained and fused with modern comforts of the complimentary designed extension built in 2009.

The home is registered to cater for 37 residents set in luxurious single rooms with en-suite shower wet room facilities.

We have a choice of lounges, which provide an elegant setting to enjoy some company, daily activity or the relaxation of a book from our library facilities. Our ground floor quiet lounge overlooks our sun patio, the beautiful gardens and onto the hills beyond.

Staff are highly trained and motivated to provide a first class individual care service for all our residents and their families.
